KRŠKO

Tourist offer

Consisting of six municipalities, namely Krško, Sevnica, Brežice, Bistrica ob Sotli, Kostanjevica na Krki and Radeče, the Posavje region is situated between the Gorjanci, the slopes of Bohor and the Zasavje mountains. The hilly areas are covered with broad forests ending with vineyards and orchards on their sunny side.

Since the region does not receive busloads of tourists, it remains more pristine, welcoming and marked by unspoiled nature. The hilly region is home to vineyards, orchards, slow rivers and interesting castles. It also has well-developed thematic hiking trails suitable for all ages. The landscape offers low to medium-high hills with the highest peaks ranging between 500 and 900 m; some are very popular among hikers, such as scenic Bohor, Lisca, Grmada and Gorjanci.

The Posavje countryside is suitable for adventure-packed family trips full of local culture as well as for hiking.

If you're looking for a culinary experience, you will not be disappointed by the great variety of traditional dishes along with excellent wines produced in this area. You are encouraged to try traditional Posavje cuisine prepared from fresh, locally produced seasonal ingredients and to visit enchanting wine cellars where you will be served fine wines.

You can choose between several difficulty levels of hiking trails, each of them offering an abundance of natural and cultural attractions. Here, you will feel in harmony with nature. You can discover hiking trails by yourself, upload the trails to your smart phone or hire a local guide to accompany you.

In addition to hiking, you can choose cycling, boat rides, or you can simply listen to friendly locals as they share interesting local stories. You can also pamper yourself at nearby thermal pools or simply relax in the peaceful nature.

Welcome

- to the land where you can be in touch with unspoiled nature, friendly people and their culture, wisdom, customs and habits.
- to the land of lively waters, great adventures and adrenaline-packed challenges.
- to the land of pristine flavours, traditional food and excellent wines.
- to the land whose numerous cultural attractions will reveal their story through time.

How to get there

Krško stretches along the right and left banks of the river Sava where the lower Sava Valley widens into the Krško Plain. Here lies the central city of the Posavje. You can take the Ljubljana-Zagreb motorway or regional roads from Celje, Maribor, and Novo mesto to reach Krško. It is situated 98 km away from Ljubljana and 51 km from Zagreb.

Krško – the whole world united in a small town, in harmony with its culture and nature

The Municipality of Krško covers an area of 286.5 km<sup>2</sup> and has a population of around 26,000 people. It has 16 local communities and is one of the largest municipalities in Slovenia. In modern times, it is known for having the largest paper mill in Slovenia and the nuclear power plant. Its economic development has been improving thanks to entrepreneurship, trade, craft, agriculture and tourism.

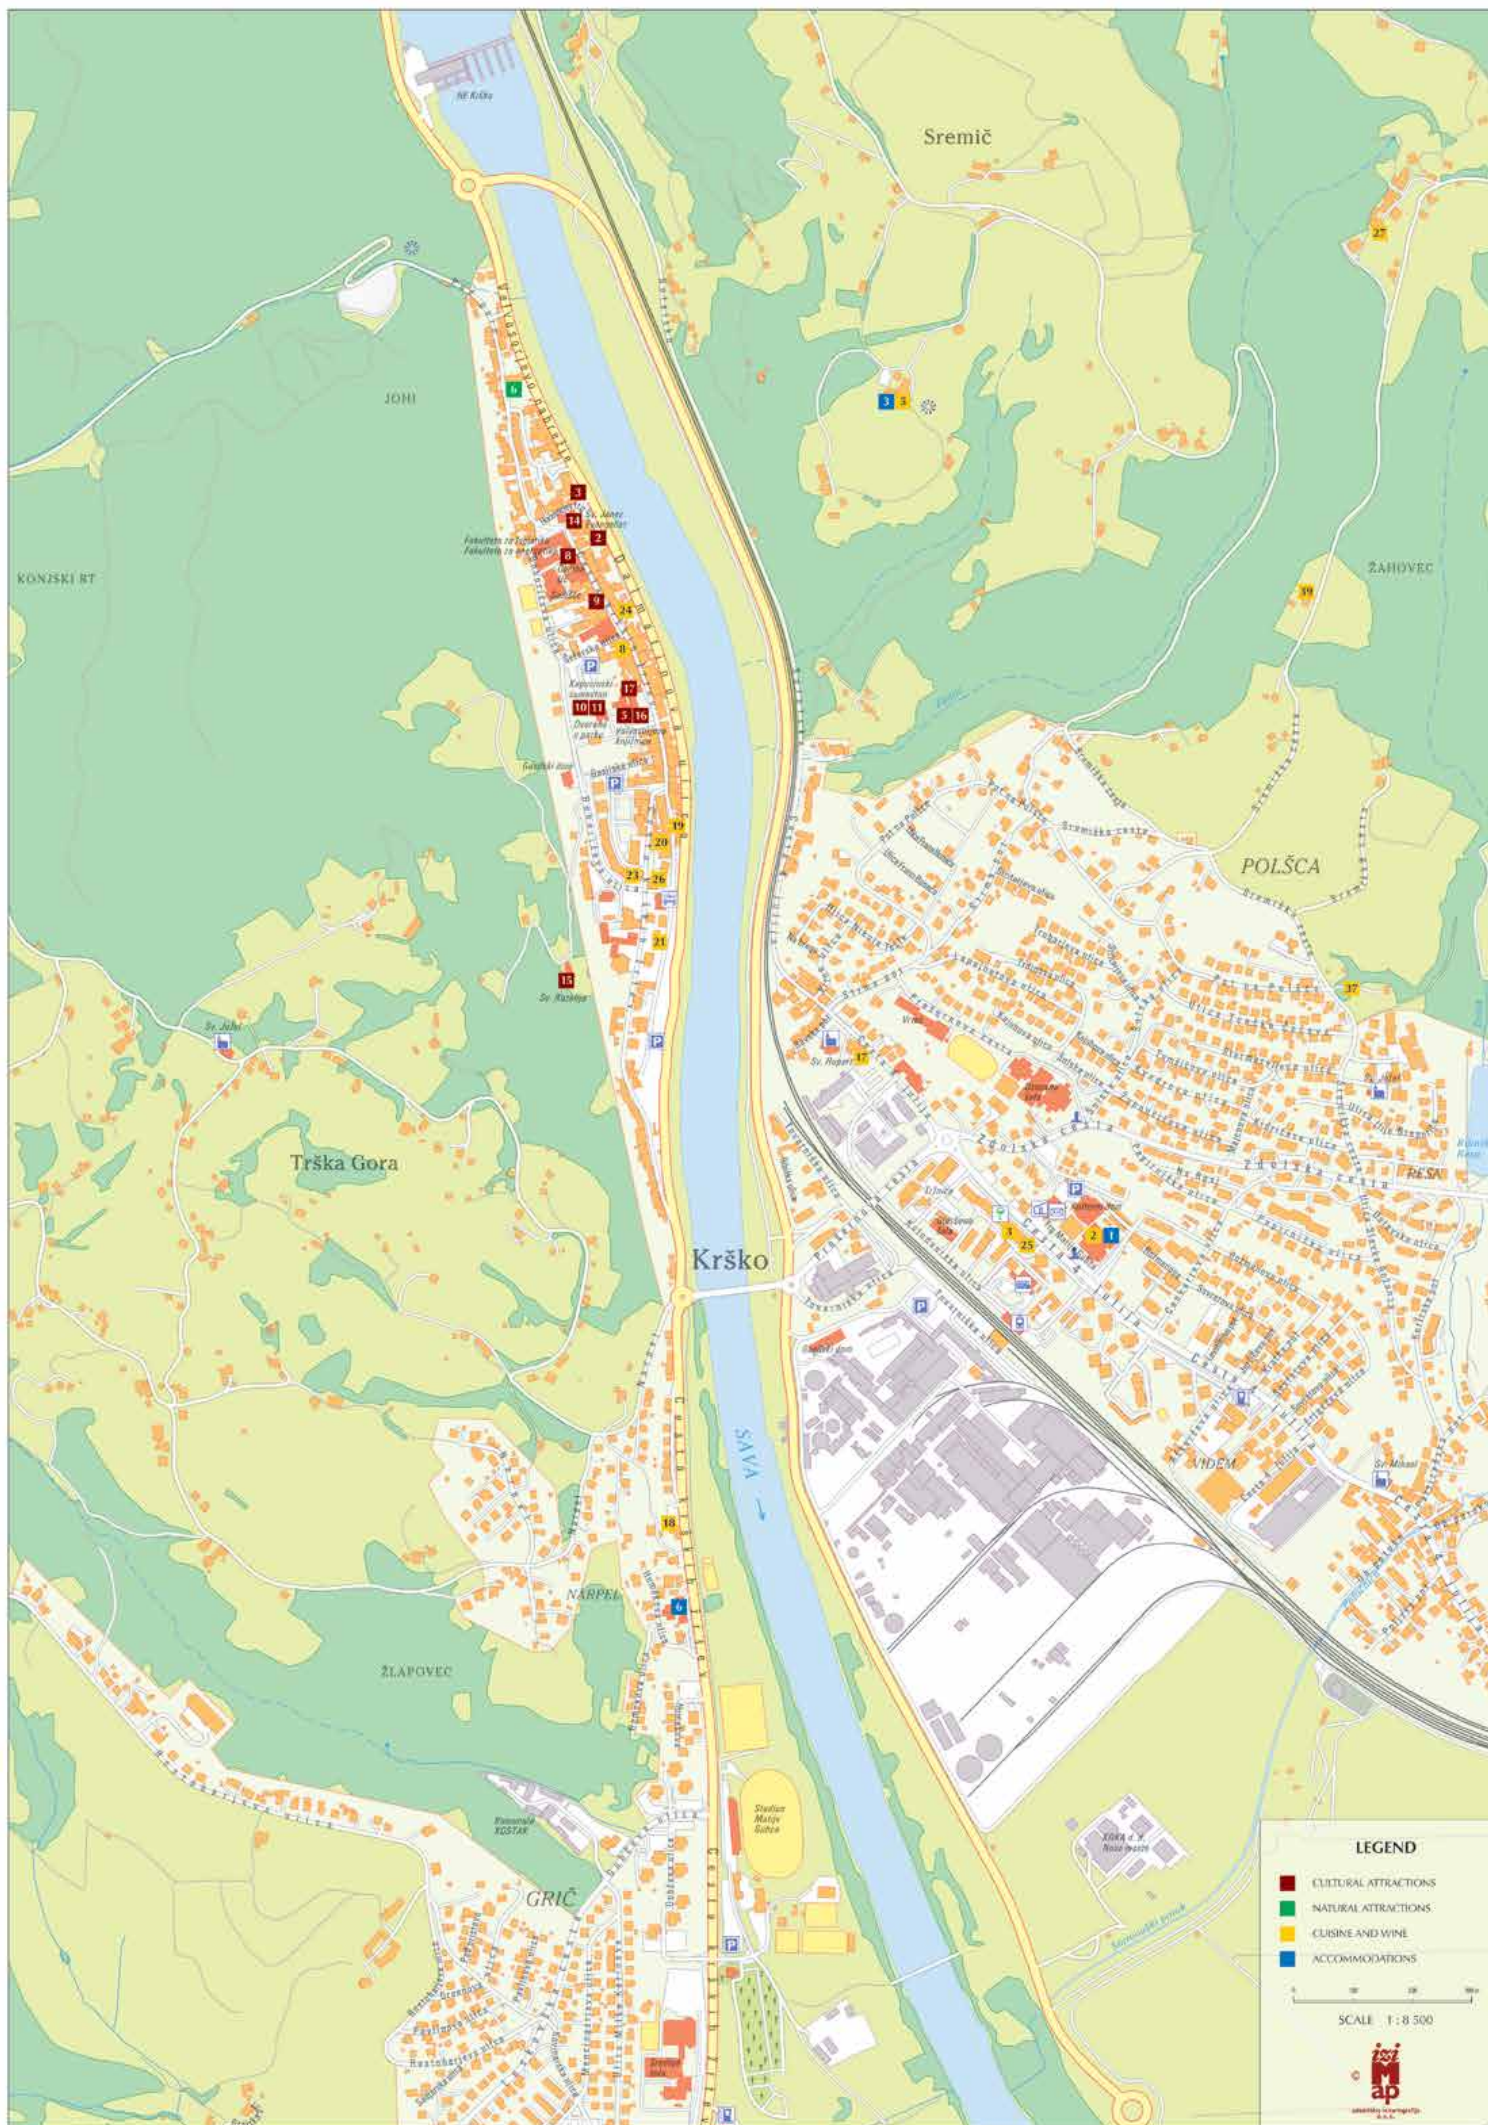

The Sava River, which flows through Krško, has had a crucial impact on the development of the town. The city's 1.5-kilometre-long main road lies between the river Sava on one side and the surrounding hills on the other. The city lost its importance in trade and transportation in the 19th century. Yet the pleasant and peaceful life on this side of the river Sava continued, while everything else was transferred to Videm on the other side of the river where a railroad, the majority of the industry, a bank, a hotel, and the cultural centre were built. Krško, on the other hand, saw the development of new residential houses, a shop, and artisan activities.

Both riverbanks together represented one unit, which can still be seen in Krško today, yet it is the only Slovenian city to fall under two dioceses. Ever since the Celje and Novo mesto dioceses were established in 2006, the left bank of Sava has belonged to the Celje diocese, and the right bank to the Novo mesto diocese. In addition, the city has two parishes, two mausoleums, two firefighting associations and two hunting associations. It is surrounded by two wine-growing regions, i.e. Bizeljsko-Sremiški and Dolenjski. Could we say Krško is a city of double pleasure? Judging by its quaint landscape and beauty, we definitely could!

Cultural attractions – a legacy of ancestors

The Krško City Museum and the museum shop unveil the life and legacy of Janez Vajkard Valvasor, the kindness of Josipina Hočevar – an exceptional woman from the 19th century, and the artistic work of the academic, sculptor and medallist Vladimir Štovički in images of the 20th century. The museum hosts various temporary exhibitions, workshops and summer events.

Don't miss the Krško Gallery, the Park Hall (Dvorana v parku) which hosts many cultural and social events, and the Grove of Deserving Citizens in the city park where you can find bust sculptures of the two most important people from the time of Protestantism in Krško: Adam Bohorič and Jurij Dalmatin, both of whom significantly influenced the beginnings of Slovenian books in the 16th century), the Valvasor Library (displaying the permanent and unique Speedway exhibition in Slovenia), the Capuchin monastery and church, plus much more.

Rajhenburg Castle

The Rajhenburg Castle has protected the surrounding area from a perch some sixty metres above the confluence of the Brestanica stream and the river Sava. The castle was rebuilt by Bishop Konrad of Salzburg in the time between 1131 and 1147; the oldest, Roman, part of the building, is reminiscent in that. The building and the land were later owned by the Rajhenburgs for half a century. After the death of the last of the Rajhenburgs, the successors added contemporary elements to the building and gradually gave it the appearance we still see today. In 1881, the Trappist monks bought the Rajhenburg Castle and turned it into a monastery, which operated until the German occupation in 1941, when the Germans transformed the castle and its appurtenant buildings into a camp for deporting Slovenes. The Trappist order was dissolved in 1947 and the castle was then nationalised. In June of the same year, a correctional facility for women opened in the castle, and later also other correctional institutions. Since 1968, when the castle hosted a permanent exhibition on deportees, it has been used primarily as a museum and an event venue.

Since the completion of the denationalisation process in 2004, the castle has been owned by the Municipality of Krško. Today, the renovated building is managed by the Krško Culture House. During various events (concerts, theatre plays, lectures, etc.) organised as part of permanent and temporary exhibitions, visitors can learn about the history of the castle, the city, and the entire region. A walk through the building displays traces of the development of the castle architecture from Romanticism, Gothic and Renaissance to the present. The castle features two chapels: a Romanesque one from the 12th century and a Gothic one from the 16th century. The residential Renaissance style space with a luxurious hall is completed with a room marked by frescoes. The exhibits of the National Museum of Contemporary History give an insight into the history of the operation of Trappist monks, the destiny of Slovene deportees and the time when various correctional institutions operated in the castle. Visitors can also see the castle furniture from the collections of the National Museum of Slovenia. Postcards show Brestanica from the end of the 19th century and motifs from the social life. The castle also includes exhibited medals from the Olympic games and world championships won by Primož Kozmus, the most famous athlete from Brestanica. The walls of the Renaissance hall are embellished with artwork of academic painter Jože Ciuha; art exhibitions are also held at the grand hall, which is marked by a four-wing Gothic window with a stone cross. The Rajhenburg Castle is one of the most important monuments of medieval castle architecture in Slovenia. In 2014, a herbal garden was planted in the neatly planned and arranged inner ward; the garden is one of the elements of the Trappist legacy which is being revived through the organisation of cultural and tourist events such as the Rajhenburg chocolate, liquor, champagne and cheese days. The castle cellar was turned into a wine gallery; the museum shop offers catalogues of exhibitions and many local products, including chocolate from Brestanica; the castle café and pastry shop serves coffee and delicious pastries. The completely renovated castle with its scenic position and exemplary interior is an excellent venue for wedding ceremonies; it is modernly equipped to be accessible for disabled people.

Krško City Museum

The museum operates as a part of the Krško Culture House. It was opened on 30th of March 2010 in the renovated Valvasor complex. In 1993, the museum was declared a cultural and historic monument. A statue of polyhistorian Valvasor by the academic sculptor and medallist Vladimir Štoviček was placed in front of the house in 1966. The museum is comprised of what was formerly three separate family residencies: a Late Renaissance Valvasor house and the neighbouring Jarnovič and Kaplan houses, which are the oldest continuously preserved buildings in Krško. Their appearance started evolving in the 15th century; in terms of architecture, the three houses are considered to be the highest quality part of the historical centre of Krško.

The museum exhibits permanent collections that present famous locals. Among them are polyhistorian Janez Vajkard Valvasor (1641–1693), patron and economist Josipina Hočevar (1824–1911), and academic sculptor and medallist Vladimir Štoviček (1896–1989). The first permanent exhibition held in the museum was the collection of Vladimir Štoviček. Every exhibit is a part of his extensive artwork, which he donated to the Municipality of Krško on the occasion of the municipality's 80th anniversary.

The museum also displays Valvasor's collection of graphic arts, Iconotheca Valvasoriana, the entire translation of Slava vojvodine Kranjske and older facsimilia from 1877.

Since 2015, visitors can also see the tragic destiny of young people who plotted the resistance to the German occupying forces already at the start of the summer of 1941. They are known as the first soldiers of Krško; the main and longest road in Krško called "Cesta krških žrtev" (the Krško victims road) has been named after them.

In addition to famous locals, the exhibits present the town throughout various periods. The exhibition "The long Age of Enlightenment in the 18th century", which presents life in that period and the connection of the locals with the river Sava is a representative sample.

The exhibition areas also provide insight into the heritage of the wider region seen through the Path of Honey-Bread Making between Krško and Zagreb.

The Krško City Museum hosts many events, such as regular professional lectures, training sessions, pedagogical or creative workshops and others.

Its permanent and temporary exhibitions and other museum programmes promote the cultural heritage of the city and the Municipality of Krško..

Krško Gallery

The former Church of the Holy Spirit (built in 1777) is situated in the direct vicinity of the Krško City Museum. It was built at the place of the former Church of the Holy Spirit (1440) by the Auerspergers. Before World War II, the church was deconsecrated and turned into the Krško Museum by 1939. In 1966, the Krško Gallery moved here, and since 2010 it has been managed by the Krško Culture House. It is an outstanding exhibition space characterised by late Baroque architecture. Despite being deconsecrated, the building still reminds visitors of its original purpose. The exhibition space hosts temporary purpose-made art exhibitions.

The Ethnological Collection Šribar

The Ethnological Collection Šribar is located in the original premises of an old rich farmhouse in Kobile. After more than 30 years of work, the collection was completed and exhibited in 2003. The collection contains more than 3,500 pieces of cultural heritage which are either exhibited or stored in depots. The oldest, a few-million-year-old pieces, are fossil remains of shells from the Pannonian Sea, whereas the majority of items originate from the 19th and 20th centuries and mostly include items that were used on farms to work the agricultural land, various tools, machines and equipment, old manual tools used by domestic artisans, household appliances, items, pieces of furniture, etc.

Speedway Exhibition

The library also contains a room called “Speedway”, or a “miniature museum” called “Speedway in Slovenia” displaying a permanent special exhibition. This is the only public collection of its kind in Slovenia. It displays the rich technical and cultural heritage of the Slovenian area. The collection includes interesting items from the past of this motorsport in Slovenia, which has more than a fifty-year tradition in Krško. The Speedway exhibition displays many items – from the bike and rider equipment to race numbers, trophies and awards, and much more. Each exhibit tells a story of more than half a century of the Slovenian Speedway, individual racers, and past events that shaped this special and exciting sport. Visitors can also see short films from the history of Speedway in Slovenia.

The Embassy of Cviček (Cvičkov hram)

The Embassy of Cviček promotes the wine Cviček, tourism, education and social events of winegrowers. It is made up of two parts: the basement serving as a wine cellar and a room that can accommodate up to 70 guests. The upper floor is made of oak logs and is a modern version of the former house from the 18th century. It is furnished following the traditions of winegrowers of that time. Winegrowers used to be called “gorniki”, and they rearranged their houses into accommodation spaces, which is why the Embassy of Cviček has three rooms: a small room with a traditional fireplace, a small bedroom and an area with a collection of vineyard and wine cellar equipment used by winegrowers in that time.

The Mencinger House

Today united, the two houses along the main street used to be separate and had house numbers 37 and 38 in the 1930s. The house features architectural elements that bear witness to the rich history of the building. During the comprehensive renovation work in 2012, rare wall paintings dating as far back as the 16th century were discovered in the north building. We assume the paintings relate to the people of Krško and the Protestant movement. Research has shown that Janez Vajkard Valvasor lived in the south building. At the end of the 19th century this was home to writer, lawyer and mayor Dr. Janez Mencinger.

A part of the house is open for guided tours (guides from the Krško City Museum).

The Krško City Museum

The museum operates as a unit of the Krško Culture House. It is located in the renovated Valvasor complex, which was opened to the public on 30 March 2010. The Municipality of Krško had already proclaimed it a cultural and historic monument in 1993, and it underwent intensive renovation work between 2008 and 2010. The complex was restored to regain its original appearance. It is comprised of three family residences: a Late Renaissance Valvasor house and the neighbouring Jarnovič and Kaplan houses, which are the oldest continuously preserved buildings in Krško. Their appearance started evolving in the 15th century.

The Old Town

Krško received city rights in 1477. The town's rich history dates from before the Turkish invasions and peasant revolts when the citizens helped peasants in 1573. At that time, the town was an important Protestant centre. This is where Adam Bohorič and his student Jurij Dalmatin worked. At the end of the 17th century, the famous polyhistorian Janez Vajkard Valvasor passed away in the southern part of what was to become a fixture of the town's historical centre, the Mencinger House. This house used to be home to the legal advocate and writer Dr. Janez Mencinger. In addition to attractions, the old town square has an administrative centre, the Valvasor Library with a Capuchin monastery, the town park, the parish church of St. John the Evangelist, and the Krško City Museum.

The Hočevar Mausoleum

The city park is home to one of the most beautiful new gothic mausoleums in Slovenia. This is where the Hočevar spouses were laid to rest. A large statue of Christ made of white stone dominates the interior of the mausoleum. Martin Hočevar died in 1886 and was buried in the city cemetery where construction of the mausoleum soon started. The building is most likely the work of an architect from Graz from the circle of Georg Hauberrisser. It was completed in 1890, when Martin Hočevar was interred and later joined by his wife Josipina in 1911.

Parks

The City Park

11

In the heart of a former graveyard and today's city park lies the former Church of the Holy Cross, now Park Hall (Dvorana v parku). Only three tombs of famous citizens of Krško remain in the park. This is where the politician and writer Dr. Janez Mencinger was laid to rest. In its direct vicinity is the tomb of the first principal, writer of the first history of Krško and the founder of a local credit bank, Ivan Lapajne. The park also hosts the Hočevar Mausoleum of the spouses Martin and Josipina Hočevar, the Valvasor Library with a Capuchin monastery, and the Grove of Deserving Citizens where you can see bust sculptures of famous Krško citizens.

The Jurij Dalmatin Memorial Park

Previously a graveyard in Videm, which is the newer part of Krško on the left bank of the river Sava, the Jurij Dalmatin Memorial Park is situated in direct vicinity of the Jurij Dalmatin Primary School. The former graveyard was turned into a memorial park in 2009. In the central part of the park is an iron sculpture depicting great Slovene Protestants by Vojko Pogačar. The author translated a drawing directly to an iron plate and depicted Jurij Dalmatin, Primož Trubar and Adam Bohorič..

Religious heritage

The Basilica of the Mary from Lourdes 13

The Basilica of the Mary from Lourdes, the so-called Slovenian Lourdes, is a pilgrim and parish church of the Brestanica Parish. It is situated in the centre of Brestanica, not far from Krško. Today, the church is one of the largest in Slovenia and the largest in the Posavje region. It is truly worth admiration due to its great size and architectural style. Many locals and foreign tourists visit this church. It was built between 1908 and 1914. It is a mighty triple-nave basilica built in neo-Romance style and considered one of the most beautiful sacral buildings in Slovenia..

The Church of St. John the Evangelist 14

The Church of St. John the Evangelist in Krško was built in 1582 and extensively remodelled in the second half of the 19th century; nowadays, only the church tower and a part under the choir still have the original form. In 1894, when the Krško Parish was established, the church was elevated to parish church status and extensively renovated with the financial help of Josipina Hočevár. In 1899, the front of the facade was embellished with reliefs, which are works of Ivan Zajc who later designed the statue of Prešeren in Ljubljana. A Plague Column from the 17th century, bearing witness to the Black Death that broke out in the town several times in its history, still stands by the church..

St. Rosalie's Church 15

The subsidiary church of St. Rosalie's is situated on a hill above Krško where it was built in 1646 by the locals as a thank you for the plague subsiding – hence, the church's name of the patroness in the fight against the plague. A special feature of the building is its wooden painted ceiling with 84 coffers, which is also one of the most beautiful of its kind in Slovenia. In the centre of the ceiling are nine coffers depicting St. Rosalie, St. Catherine, St. Ellen, St. Lucy, St. Apollonia, St. Cecil, St. Ursula, St. Margaret and St. Barbara. At the right of the entrance is a thank you plate to benefactress Josipina Hočevár who renovated the church; the inscription was created by writer Janez Mencinger.

Libraries

The Valvasor Library, Krško

The Valvasor Library has operated as the central library in the Municipality of Krško since 1965. It is situated in five locations; in addition to the central library and the youth department in the old town, there are units in Videm, Senovo and Kostanjevica na Krki. In 1988, the Capuchin monastery became home to the central library. Over the years the library has become a modern cultural, educational, information and social centre to the local area, providing and implementing library services for all generations.

The library enables access to sources of information and knowledge and plays an active role in the development of the modern reading culture and information society. It helps develop the local studies activity and preserve the cultural heritage of the local area. In addition, it plays an active role in lifelong learning, prepares various bibliopedagogic activities for children and adults and organizes cultural events for all generations. It implements its mission in cooperation with educational and other institutions, societies and organizations in the local and wider area. In 2015, the library's collection included 165,000 units of material; its members borrowed over 380,000 units, and it received more than 120,000 visitors.

The Krško Valvasor Library is one of the most frequented cultural institutions in the municipality; it is the meeting spot, the "living room" of the town, and as such, a popular, must-have building among the locals..

The Capuchin monastery and library

17

Capuchins settled in Krško in 1644 and needed a library for their work. The rich Baroque Capuchin library is a unique example of a monastery library, having been preserved in its original form and structure from Brežice to Ljubljana, and it is still housed on the top floor of the monastery adjacent to the modern-style Valvasor Library. Capuchins in Krško worked in the educational and health fields, thus the library includes many dictionaries, lexicons and medical books, as well as theological, philosophical, law and history books, and biographies. The oldest book is the Latin dictionary by Calepin which was published in 1502. The more than 300 year-old library has around 1,500 books, which include work of Tobia Lionelli. Between 1980 and 1984 the library was refurbished, and it opened to the public in 1984. Both institutions foster their priceless cultural heritage and organise tours for visitors to learn about it.

Archaeological sites

The Ajdovska Cave (Ajdovska jama)

18

Located in a Karst area of the Krško hills near Nemška vas (German village), the Ajdovska Cave is a well-known archaeological site dating back to the end of the 19th century. The excavation done so far has proven the presence of humankind in the New Stone Age and, according to certain assumptions, even from the Old Stone Age. The cave was used for cult, farewell and funeral purposes. The excavated tombs have shown many items dating as far back as 6,000 years (pottery, necklaces, bracelets and tools). The cave was also shelter to various animals, which is attested by a 50,000 year-old skeleton of a cave bear and around 5,000 year-old remains of bats. The cave, which people used as refuge from various dangers in the Antiquity and the High Middle Ages, is one of Slovenia's most important archaeological sites. The excavated items are displayed in the Posavje Museum in Brežice.

Neviodunum (Drnovo)

Founded by the Romans in the first half of the 1st century, Neviodunum, a city in the area of today's village of Drnovo, was primarily important as a port, although it was also a lively commercial and craft centre with many pottery and brick workshops. It was the political, economic and cultural centre situated along two important roads: the road connecting Aquileia, Emona and Siscia, and the road along the river Sava. Today, the location of the majestic Neviodunum is an important archaeological site.

Natural attractions

The Krakov Forest (Krakovski gozd)

The Krakov Forest is one of the few preserved forests of its kind in Europe. It is the largest lowland floodplain oak forest in Slovenia, occupying on an area of some 3,000 hectares between the Krka and Sava rivers. In the heart of the forest, there is a preserved 40.5 ha large secondary primeval forest with several-century-old oak trees which has been protected as a nature reserve since 1952. The wetland forest amidst a levelled agricultural land is a sanctuary for many plant and animal species. With 14 species present, amphibians are by far the most endangered, for example the moor frog, and birds such as the middle spotted woodpecker, the collared flycatcher, the black stork, the lesser spotted eagle and the white-tailed eagle. By the forest is an 8-kilometre hiking trail named after Ressel, the inventor the ship propeller.

The Bohor Mountains

This wide, 20-km long mountain range is situated left of Krško; it sits at an altitude of 900 metres and stretches in the east-west direction. The highest village on Bohor is Stranje at 820 metres, and the highest peak of the Bohor mountains is Veliki Javornik at 1024 metres. The mighty forests have always provided refuge to many people, animals and plants. The yew tree that can be found here is protected among tree species in Slovenia. This is also the place where the only preserved habitat of the winter aconite and several Posavje endemic plants are found. The many species of ferns and moss, the protected butcher's broom and rare orchids give the landscape a special charm. The fauna is varied and includes the chamois, and even the European crayfish in some streams. The Bohor area is intertwined with streams and their waterfalls; natural attractions include the stone needle (Igla) and the Bohor natural window. There are various hiking trails leading to Bohor past four waterfalls, a partisan hospital and an old mill. Hikers can relax in the mountain chalet (Koča na Bohorju) on the top of Bohor.

The waterfalls of Bohor

Rising above Senovo, the area of the Bohor mountains reveals a stunning masterpiece of nature where every outdoor lover can admire four majestic waterfalls: Bojanca, Pekel, Ubojavnik and Bojavnik. Some of the waterfalls are even more than 15 metres high. They are not known well among the public, which contributes to their peaceful environment. The waterfalls are hidden deep in the gorges of streams and therefore do not receive hordes of tourists. Nevertheless, they can be accessed by anyone who is in good enough physical shape to reach them via the trail of the four waterfalls, which makes a good day trip. For your safety, hiring a local guide is recommended. We advise you to take the trip in nice weather and when it is not too wet, as the trail could otherwise be much more difficult.

The Gorjanci Hills

The Karst landscape and predominantly forest-covered mountain range rises up to the popular hiking attraction, Trdinov Vrh (1178 m) above the Krško basin, and occupies the entire southern border of the Municipality of Krško with Croatia. There are many springs in the Gorjanci, the most famous of which are the mythological "Gospodična" and "Minutnik". Clear streams such as Kobila, Pendirjevka and Kamfer have carved deep and picturesque valleys into the northern slopes. This is where the brown bear lives. The area is also known for the several-century-long tradition of dormouse hunting. The lower slopes and regions without forest are the real home of the Cviček wine. The area of Gorjanci is intertwined with roads, footpaths and marked hiking trails. Forests include the Ravna Gora reserve with several hectares of protected thick beech trees.

The River Sava

With more than 200 kilometres in length, the Sava River is not only the longest waterstream in the municipality, but also in Slovenia. Throughout history its changing river flow formed river terraces. Until the second half of the 19th century, it was an important cargo road with ports at Drnovo, Krško and Rajhenburg. In the area of the Municipality of Krško, the river first flows through a narrow gorge, and from the city onwards on Krško's gravel plain. Over the centuries, the river has trailed through our fields, changing its riverbed occasionally, until we curtailed it with dykes and regulations. It is popular among fishermen for its abundance of fish. The river is also important because of a chain of hydroelectric power plants. Moreover, it is perfect for many water sports such as canoeing, kayaking, and rafting.

The red beech tree

From the Hočevar Square towards the Pod Goro Street there are a few apartment buildings among the former gardens of wealthy citizens. Behind them is a small park where a mighty red beech tree grows. In addition to its beauty, the tree is the largest red beech tree in Slovenia. A well sits distinctively in front of the park beside it a famous 17th century parson's house.

The River Krka

The Krka River is a typical slow Karst river. With a length of 94 kilometres, it is one of the longest rivers flowing in its entirety in Slovenia. Its source is near the village of Krka, not far from Ivančna Gorica, and flows into the river Sava at Čatež near Brežice. The upper stream of the river is very dynamic due to the elevation drop, while it becomes almost completely still in the lower stream. This green river, also called the green beauty, is very eye-catching and offers much pleasure – boating, SUPing, canoeing, swimming, fishing or simply taking a break from daily worries while lying on its riverbeds. The most picturesque place along the river is Kostanjevica na Krki, which is located on its lower stream and is the only Slovenian town entirely surrounded with water, called also “the Venice of Dolenjska”.

The Mačkovci Ponds

Approximately 2 km to the northeast of Brestanica are the Mačkovci ponds, which were first completed by the Counts of Brestanica and later maintained by the Trappists. The ponds include three artificial ponds occupying a surface area of more than 15 ha, 6.5 ha of which is water surface. The ponds are owned by the Brestanica-Krško fishing club and are extremely popular among fishermen as well as other visitors. You can enjoy great food served in the guest house by the ponds. The nearby forests and meadows are perfect for hiking. Over the years, this has become a popular sports and fishing venue and an excursion site. Visitors can see many animal species, such as turtles, grey herons, grebes and rare frog species. Fish species in the ponds include carp, catfish, grass carp and common rudd.

Located in a Karst area of the Krško hills, the Ajdovska Cave is an old Neolithic sanctuary which was used as refuge for people from various dangers in Antiquity and the High Middle Ages. It is one of Slovenia's most important archaeological sites. Being home to the largest birthing colony of the Mediterranean horseshoe bat, which is a particularly endangered species in Europe, the Ajdovska Cave is a natural asset of national importance, and it is also included in the Natura 2000 network. In order to protect the bats, the cave is closed for visitors in the summertime. It is an important Karst habitat and an exemplary case of intertwining the natural and cultural heritage.

The Senovo Coal Mine

Senovo is situated in the northern part of the Municipality of Krško, below the southern slopes of Bohor. The development of Senovo and the entire Senovo-Brestanica valley was closely connected with the coal mine. The history of the Senovo coal mine dates back to 1796, when the farrier Andrej Grabner found coal while preparing charcoal in the Reštanj woods. Count Attems from Rajhenburg first started to exploit coal with surface mining in 1810. After 1904, when TPD took it over, the coal mine started to develop very fast. The population of the valley increased, and it became a typical mining settlement. The majority of the other industry in the valley developed due to the coal mine. In the golden times, the coal mine employed almost 1,000 workers. It is no longer in operation, but it is still open for groups of visitors upon prior arrangement.

The Geological Exhibition

Exhibition The geological collection consists of samples of rocks, fossils and minerals. It is displayed at the Senovo Primary School. The collection of 192 igneous, sedimentary, and metamorphic rocks was obtained through the exchanges between Slovenian students from various schools more than twenty years ago. Most of the fossils come from the former mining collection while the minerals come from the collection of minerals which the school acquired from the Natural History Museum and the mining collection. Considering the chemical structure of minerals, all nine groups are represented in a total of 210 samples. The collection is displayed in the school corridor; visits are possible upon advance arrangement with the school management. The two centuries old mining tradition presenting the mining pit, the equipment of miners and their machines is also displayed in the school corridor.

Located in Vrbina, on the left bank of the River Sava, just outside of Krško, the Krško Nuclear Power Plant is the only nuclear power plant in Slovenia. It offers guided tours of the plant. Every year, the nuclear power plant receives roughly around 5,000 visitors, with more than a half being primary, secondary school and university students. Primary school students visit the nuclear power station as part of their science days, whereas secondary school and university students as part of individual school subjects. Various associations and groups of citizens organise expert field trips to this power plant.

Speedway

Suggestions for trips and short vacations

Brestanica by e-bike

Enjoy a short break around Brestanica and its surrounding area on an e-bike. Explore cultural attractions, discover natural beauties and indulge in culinary treats. Take any of the cycling trails, which will be even more delightful and memorable if you are on an e-bike.

The town of Brestanica in the Municipality of Krško is still called Rajhenburg by the locals, the same as the castle in Brestanica. The town is among the oldest ones in the region, as it was first mentioned in 838. It has a variety of historical monuments. There are many natural and cultural attractions near Brestanica for you to see. The Brestanica Tourist Association (Turistično društvo Brestanica) always ensures that there are plenty of cultural events here. By far the most important attractions are the Rajhenburg Castle, the Spodnji Grad Turn Castle, the Basilica of the Mary from Lourdes and other churches. Just outside of Brestanica towards Senovo you can use Jablance as a starting point to climb the Bohor mountains or take the path of the four waterfalls.

The package includes:

An overnight stay in Hostel Kozmus with breakfast
E-bike rental
Tasting at Hiša trt, vina in čokolade Kunej
Tour of the Rajhenburg Castle
Tour of the collection of rocks, minerals and fossilsš

Discover towns, culture and festivals

Posavje holds many cultural attractions, such as castles, archaeological sites and many churches. It is also the home of many famous people who have left a special mark on the cultural history of Slovenes.

Explore the rich cultural heritage of Krško, visit the Krško City Museum, and feel the spirit of Janez Vajkard Valvasor and Josipina Hočevar. Walk around the city park where you can see memorial figures of important persons who left a mark on the development of the town and its wider area. Set on a plain atop the hill above the old part of the town is the Church of St. Rosalie, which is surrounded by trees. St. Rosalie was the patroness in the fight against the plague.

Cross the bridge to the other bank of the river Sava to arrive at the Matija Gubec Square, this is where various cultural, sport and entertainment events are occasionally held. Higher above the square in the Jurij Dalmatin Memorial Park is a more than four-metre high sculpture devoted to Slovenian Protestant reformers. Just outside of town is the recently renovated Rajhenburg Castle where you can read all about the life of Trappists.

The package includes:

1 night at Hotel Kunst with breakfast
2x lunch or dinner
Tour of the Rajhenburg Castle
E-bike rental
Guided city tour

The abundance of flavours and culinary delicacies of Posavje

Have you ever spent a night in a winemaker's cottage amidst vineyards? Experience a different kind of vacation and enjoy special packages that have been prepared by innovative providers from Posavje. Prepare for new adventures, and taste local wines and the best traditional dishes.

Try traditional Posavje culinary delicacies prepared from fresh, locally produced, seasonal ingredients.

Wander around the surrounding tourist farms and indulge in charming wine cellars that offer excellent local wines. The Posavje region is famous for three great wines, namely Cviček, Bizeljčan and Sremičan.

You will be stunned by the nature, which is still largely intact and calming. When you enter a restaurant or a wine cellar in this area, you will always be greeted by friendly, yet not pushy staff. They will serve you house specialities or local dishes, impossible to find elsewhere. You can also opt for traditional food with a modern flare, or have a go at typical Slovenian dishes.

We especially recommend Posavje's delicacies such as "puhla" with a special overheated cream, the "cop na lop" pastry, Bizeljsko buckwheat cake, baked cheese "štruklji" rolls, "korejavec" carrot stew, Krško Polje pork products, roast foal or any other dish.

The package includes:

- 2 nights in a vineyard cottage
- 3x lunch
- 2x dinner
- 4x wine cellar tour and wine tasting
- Bread baking
